INSPIRED THEN

The Clay Studio was founded in 1974 by a group of 5 ceramic artists in need of shared studio space. Today, The Clay Studio is a world-renowned ceramic arts center, serving more than 35,000 people each year with the highest quality artistic, educational, and community programs.

IN 2021

OUR NEW HOME In the vibrant South Kensington neighborhood will be a welcoming center for the community and propel us forward as a national and international leader in ceramics.

A PREVIEW OF WHAT'S COMING

- 32,000 square foot facility with rooftop garden and outdoor pavilion
- double the number of classrooms
- new spaces dedicated to youth classes and after-school programs
- more and larger artist studios and a dedicated studio for visiting artists
- the most technologically advanced art-making equipment
- dynamic galleries for greater variety of exhibitions and installations
- flexible and accessible public spaces for special events and conferences

Designed by Digsau Architects, the new Clay Studio will be the first of its kind ceramic arts facility built from the ground up in the United States.

Since its founding in 1974 by five artists, The Clay Studio has always believed in the power of art to change lives. Now, as we break ground for our new home, we are at a defining moment, when our collective creativity will become an even greater force for good.
